Don't forget about the last airbag where we introduced our SLACK channel.

We have a number of Channels, such as announcements, news and policy, for sale, and going flying (when are people going to be at the field). We also have a channel called virtual events where multiplayer simulator events can be scheduled. We've done this several times so far and have really enjoyed the combat using RealFlight and if you join this channel you'll be alerted the next time we do this.

Here is the link to join our slack Channel, just enter this in you phone or computer, and it will guide you through the process:

See you online and in person (sometime soon) and most of all BE SAFE and STAY HEALTHY
